NATIVE CONVICTS GIVEN TOO MUCH POWER, SAYS OSBORNE

PROBE SHOWS JAIL WARDEN IS LIVING ON THE STATE

acted by himself of 1924. To continue the same.

To this limited report that the advent of Lincoln into the state there had been a lot of confusion.

PLAYED TO CONVICTS

Mr. Osborne, in discussing the jail system at Thomaston, made the point that it had not been organized by the trustees themselves, as in the case of the other jails.

He also outlined the main plan of having the convict board at the general of the Western League acting in a dual capacity.

According to Mr. Osborne, it is all right to have government appointing the prisoners, but they should not act as judges also. He said in the system there was a reciprocal abuse of the government, and he was responsible for everything.

ALL THEIR OWN WAY

The prison report declared that the Maine system of having the warden or deputy warden taking rank in hearings was wrong. He said the prisoners should conduct the hearings themselves, making their own laws and recommendations to the warden or deputy warden, who would have final decision.

Touching on the belief held by certain persons that prison reform is responsible for the crime wave, Mr. Osborne said he did not believe that to be so.

Prison Commissioner Hildbrand, called to the stand, admitted that he was not aware that the warden is entitled to his salary of $3,000 a year, was getting food from the prison commissary for nothing.

Commissioner Hastings made the case admission and had stated the Governor had asked their attention to reports of his conditions in the State Prison. Hastings said he had favored the Governor to start an investigation of these reports.

MORE AFFIDAVITS READ

Previous to calling Mr. Osborne, three affidavits from convicts, generally reflecting the charges originally put forward.

made in affidavits signed by prison convicts were accepted as evidence in the case.

Grafton and Davis, in their affidavits, stated that they had asked the prison warden to let them out of the prison. Grafton declared he had been off duty for five men, and the others in the jail.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

The financial statement, signed by five trustees, referred to accounts at the end of the year. It showed a deficit of $1,000.

UP TO LEGISLATURE

The report was finished after Warden Lewis D. Eaton was called to the stand to tell about the trial system in Maine.

While Governor Brewster has no responsibility for the crime wave, it is believed that he will do his best to force the trustees to make their own laws.

The Legislature, which convenes in January, is the only body with power to remove the prison commissioners, who have jurisdiction over the warden and deputy warden.

It is generally considered that the case admission and had stated the Governor had asked their attention to reports of his conditions in the State Prison.

STOCKS SOAR IN BULL DRIVE

a lowering of call money rates and circulation of rumors that the Federal Reserve Department investigation of the undistributed profits of large corporations would undoubtedly lead to the distribution of stock dividends.

TWO SUMMER COTTAGES AT REVERE RANSACKED

Two houses were ransacked in the Revere police today. Angelo Amato, of No. 141 Haven street, East Boston, reported his summer cottage on Shoreway street, Revere, had been broken into and that a quantity of tools and a shot gun were stolen.

CLEAR CAPTAIN OF MACKINAC IN DISASTER

Skipper and Assistant Engineer Found Not Guilty in Probe of Sea Tragedy

Providence, R. I., Nov. 4.—Robert Clark and Richard F. Taylor, both Federal steamship inspectors, had a down a decision today in which they found Captain George W. Taylor and First Assistant Engineer George C. Mullen of the steamship Mackinac not guilty of negligence and dismissed the charges against them.

They were officers on the Mackinac, "patrolled" up last at Portland, that exploded in "Sargat" harbor on August 18, killing fifty-five people.

CAPTAIN IS EXONERATED

In their report on Captain Taylor the inspectors say: "We find that although you were aware that minor repairs were being made to the forward boiler, just prior to the leaving of the dock in Portland, on August 18, you had every reason to believe they had been completed in a manner satisfactory to the chief engineer, in whom you had every confidence."

"Evidence further shows that at no time did you know, or have any reason to believe, that repairs had not been completed, or that at any time trouble had developed or that any serious boiler condition existed."

DESTROYERS ARE RUSHED TO SYRIA

Two That Awaited Orders at Alexandria Leave Hurdled for Beirut

Alexandria, Egypt, Nov. 4 (A.P.A.)—Two American destroyers which had been lying here awaiting orders left hurriedly today for Beirut, Syria.

DESTROYERS SENT AS PRECAUTIONARY MEASURE

Washington, Nov. 4 (A.P.A.)—Two American destroyers, the Oglethorpe and the Lamson, were sent from Alexandria, Egypt, to Beirut today as a precautionary measure.

American Consul Paul Knabenzon called the State Department that he had sent a message to the destroyers to proceed to Beirut, although there was no immediate danger to Americans in Damascus or Beirut.

The destroyers were dispatched to Alexandria several days ago, after the consul had reported the possibility of danger to American life and property in Syria. They had been held there in readiness to proceed to the Syrian port when necessary.

HELS AND COWS HOLD BACK JURY IN MACRI CASE

TOO BUSY AT HOME, SAY FARMERS

One Man Brings a Petition From Citizens That He Is Needed to Collect Taxes

By HERT FORD.

Litchfield, Ct., Nov. 4.—Joseph P. Sanford, farmer, of Bethlehem, fifth talemán interrogated today for jury service at the Olympia Macri trial, declared admission that the accused girl shot John Bagnano in self-defense, did not change his opinion. He was excused.

William J. Hunt, who qualified on Tuesday, is the only talemán thus far impaneled.

The fact that he was excused by Judge George E. Higgins until Friday indicated that neither side hoped for completion of the panel before next week.

Of the forty-five additional talemán called today, about one in three offered "cows and chickens" as excuse for not wanting to serve. Three had pressing engagements in which their husbands have figured, but that didn't count.

But Judge Higgins was liberal with excuses and delays. He told of being short of help and being compelled personally to run for many hours and cows.

BRINGS IN PETITION.

Edward Thierly, tax collector of New Hartford, caused a scene when he presented a petition signed by taxpayers who made the astounding confession that they wanted him to keep on with tax collections.

Fred A. Chamberlain, Hartford farmer, had a fixed opinion and so had his wife. Excused.

Albert Bentley, thirty-six of Hartford, a farmer, painter and carpenter, insisted that no matter what testimony he might hear or what the court said to him, he wouldn't be able to shake off his opinion about the Macri case. He was excused.

"I've already heard too much sworn testimony. Served as juror in this very court last term," he explained. "I've got an opinion, fixed and firm."

WHO AND WHY.

Among the talemán excused today for cause were:

John Jordan, caretaker, Norfolk; Walter W. Collier, tax collector, Norfolk; G. P. Wrayton, only drop forger in factory that employs him, in Thomaston; Joseph B. Root, town blacksmith, Morris Sherman, P. Canfield, New Milford, clothier, too busy preparing for Christmas rush; Benjamin F. Dillie, alone on a 240-acre farm in East Canaan; Frank T. Curry, New Milford, short of help and overworked in five and ten-cent store.

A. E. Tomlinson, Plymouth, said he might lose contract in house he was building; H. O. Beardsley, Roxbury, no help on 300-acre farm with sixty head of cattle; Oscar S. Johnson, Roxbury, twenty-eight cows and 150-acre farm; Morris L. Munn, Plymouth, no help on his farm; George B. Levensworth, Roxbury, no help on farm; Bernard Pearson, Sharon, no help on 300-acre farm; Edward Prindle, no farm help; Paul R. Cleveland, Salisbury, must give personal attention to his milk business.

Scott Manchester of New Hartford who told the judge his wife would be left alone at home, was not excused on that plea.

NEW LAW MAN JURORS.

William J. Hunt, the bonded farmer from Bethlehem, might have escaped service, when he qualified as juror No. 1, if he had tried to exercise the right bestowed by the new law, passed since the first trial of Olympia, last May.

This statute exempts a citizen from service who has served in the same county within five years. Hunt had served, but either didn't think or care to take refuge under the law.

Olympia Macri looked happier today. She says her baby Lucy, child of Bagnano, will be brought to her here by relatives, perhaps next week. Little Lucy was a pathetic figure at the trial in New Haven last May.

2 PINNED UNDER TRUCK

IN CRASH WITH SEDAN

Two men were pinned underneath their light truck in a collision with a sedan at Broadway and Revere Beach Parkway, Beverly, George H. Foley of No. 23 Calumet street, Beverly, was operating the truck. Dr. Harry Riverman of No. 137 Shirley avenue was driving the sedan which was struck in the middle by the truck, which overturned John Harley of No. 37 Calumet street, was with Foley. Both were out in several places.

'MOTHER MACRI' REJOICES IN NEW HOPES

By MAXINE MERRIFIELD.

Lighted by Nov. 4.—The little scene of hovering death was removed from Olympia Macri's cup of sorrows when she heard State's Attorney Alling declare that "we do not ask for a death penalty in Miss Macri's case—only a just penalty for her crime."

A life, after all, is sweet, bitter sweet, to the New Haven singer who faces the charge of first degree murder of "Babe" Macri in her retreat at the pretty Backshire hamlet, for there is Baby Lucy at home just learning to frame the first, stumbling syllables of her name.

"MOTHER MACRI." "Mother Macri." It has an Irish lilt to it, but the little Italian singer sings it with the clear relief of her redneck colonial jail: lullabies such as mothers in long ago days sang to their babes. In the cradle of New England ancestry, seems of her second spectacular trial.

Today the pattern woven by the sunlight over the green blades of the courtyard threw the clear relief of prison bars before the eyes of the unwed mother. And yesterday the crisp November winds had whipped the laughter outside the windows into fantastic shapes of galleons and drooping nooses.

Spectators in the courtroom while peered and noticed—but not as Olympia. Relief at Attorney Alling's statement, "not the penalty of death" sent her eyes racing far afield, beyond the pretty country, far beyond to her New Haven home where baby is.

PROUD OF BABY.

"The baby has six teeth," she said. "You should see her. She is such a darling. She stands all alone now. But, oh, she was so sick this summer and I was so frightened."

"She had whooping cough, and then right on top of that, eczema and abscesses."

"People tried to comfort me and say all babies went through such times, but when I couldn't be with her and know exactly how she was it nearly drove me crazy."

"If little Lucy had died I don't believe I would have cared much how things went with me. She is all I live for now, you see."

But fate has decreed that both Olympia and her baby shall live. Whether the young mother will send a portion of her life behind prison bars, however, is still on the issue of the judge and before the twelve jurymen's seats filling so slowly.

So Olympia only looks dreamily on and beyond; to her New Haven home, where little Lucy recently celebrated her first birthday cake, a gala occasion, with presents of dainty garments and pretty toys from New Haven society women and back to the courtroom, where the ghost of Jurymen Andrews of her former trial will stalk in the battling of the lawyers and talemán answer questions about "what my wife thinks of Olympia Macri."

And through it all Olympia Macri only thinks of—about life, sweet, bitter, sweet life and her baby.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 4 (A.P.).—Chaplain Obelt, serially ill at St. Joseph's Hospital, was reported today as resting easily, but physicians expressed doubt of his recovery.

Obelt was stricken last Friday night but his illness did not become generally known until last night, when John McCormack announced it from the concert platform in Hill Auditorium.

Explaining why he had suddenly stopped in the midst of the song "Mother Macri," McCormack said: "I have just learned that my dear friend, Chaplain Obelt, is lying seriously ill at a local hospital. I know the audience, knowing of his illness, will include a prayer for his recovery."

WARM SPELL IS POLICE GUARDIN HERE FOR TIME EACH 'CHECKER'

Although clouds are gathering, no storms are expected by the weather bureau before the end of the week. The Western storm centre had moved to Denver this morning, but the experts are certain that the Eastern half of the country will shut it north before it can hit New England.

Mild temperature continues and at 10 o'clock today the thermometer showed 37. The lowest point during the night was 35.

Another cold wave has emitted from the northwest and today Calgary reported two below zero.

Northfield, Vt. at 18, continues to be the coldest spot in New England. Heavy rains continue in the South Atlantic and Gulf states but these are being swept seaward.

A police officer to accompany each driver was detailed by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley today when the Checker Taxi Company resumed operations with forty cars on the Boston streets.

The forty taxis were driven by chauffeurs hired to replace the striking drivers, who have been picketing the garage of the company daily. The strike thus far has resulted in no violence, but Superintendent Crowley has prepared for any trouble.

An Estimate of Nichols, By Ex-Mayor Peters

By ANDREW A. PETERS,
Former Mayor of Boston.

Stokely C. Nichols will be an important figure in the City of Boston in the next four years that it is natural the citizens wish to know about him.

My opportunity to observe Mr. Nichols has been considerable as while I was Mayor he served the City of Boston in various capacities. After his term in the State Senate he was appointed by me a member of the School House Commission.

Mr. Nichols also served as chairman of the Bond and Housing Commission of the City of Boston. The commission had a difficult problem to meet owing to the congested conditions brought about by the war and had no easy task of remedying the conditions of land.

After the death of the Hon. John Quincy Nichols, Mr. Nichols succeeded him as chairman of the Boston American theatre. It has degraded the tastes of the public so that all they care for is slang and musical comedies. People have no command of English. Many are in the habit of speaking in a slangy way.

They are not witty but they are slang and they think it is all. I am getting tired of it. I no longer have the desire to struggle to please when they do not appreciate real art. Few people in Boston want artistic shows. They are for musical comedies and live plays.

But I live America and shall continue to live here. My ambition now is to write and produce. The stage has lost its appeal.

Four weeks ago while attending a rally of the campaign workers at Tremont Temple, Sheriff Keliher was shot in the chest by a bullet from the crowd.

The bullet entered his chest and passed through his lungs. He was taken to the hospital and is now recovering from his wounds.

ONE WOMAN ON NEW SCHOOL BOARD

Three of Association's Ticket Successful in Fight Involving 16

Boston's school committee, for the next two years, will have as members: Edward M. Sullivan, Jennie Lettman Barrow, Dr. Frederick L. Bagin, Francis C. Gray and William C. O'Brien. For four years, Sullivan and Barrow will serve, the rest ending terms at two various periods.

And of these five candidates, three, Barrow, Bagin and Gray, are successful candidates named by the Public School Association.

The school committee fight was a "last man up" going fight, fought out to the last ballot and with the decision not in until the last hour of the final count.

Gallant battles were waged by the popular Joe Hurley, George McDevitt and Billy Maguire, but they fell just short of victory.

When the ballots were counted, the results were found to be as follows: Sullivan, 74,347; Barrow, 72,731; Bagin, 68,912; Gray, 55,729; O'Brien, 55,422; McDevitt, 54,125; Hurley, 47,431; Maguire, 47,249; McDevitt, 44,827; McDevitt, 28,524; Casey, 35,889; McCarthy, 28,441; Harty, 32,312; Wynn, 25,416; Monaghan, 18,108; Deane, 15,871.

The purpose in the school committee election was to elect a committee which would be a better body than the present one.

It was proven conclusively by the investigation made here that the school committee was a body which was not fit to be a school committee.

Through the school committee election and the election of three Public School Association candidates, the school will be a better body than the present one.

Yes, People of New England— Big Business is Safe with You

FORTUNATE indeed is the business house, or the individual, that begins life in New England.

Here are traditions which, if heeded, will guide one up to success through every stage of development. Traditions of care and thoroughness. Traditions of quality. For three hundred years these have been as much a part of New England as have her rock-bound coasts and wooded streams.

In the past, New England has prospered because of service rendered; because of the world's appreciation of her work; because of her never-failing ability to adjust herself industrially to changes which are the inevitable results of time and progress. True, these changes have sometimes caused her to pause briefly for readjustments—but, with characteristic Yankee ingenuity, determination, she has always picked up speed again and forged ahead.

In no corner of the world will you find a more contented and well-housed people than in New England—people who have prospered by keeping tuned up to the ideals that have made New England great. And in no corner of the world will you find more securely established businesses, or a finer young generation ready to step into its father's shoes and carry on.

New England may justly be proud of her sons and daughters. Beneath their outward sophistication lie youthful hearts that beat in harmony with old traditions—and intelligent minds to which modern education is adding keen perception and sound judgment that will blossom to the increasing glory of New England as the years pass.

So New England has everything in respect of the future. Her past is a beacon which lights the way ahead. Her principles have surmounted every obstacle three centuries could produce. And the character and progressive spirit of her people are such that Big Business, which shapes its policies in accordance with New England demands, is safe with them.

La Touraine Tea and Coffee are the embodiment of the spirit of New England, which has been our guide through every stage of business development.

Into these beverages we have incorporated, as nearly as is humanly possible, the traditions, aims and ambitions that have made New England great.

New England people have responded wonderfully. Each year the demand has grown larger and larger until La Touraine is undoubtedly the biggest selling coffee in New England. And upwards of 20,000 New England dealers are ever ready to fill the requirements of people who want the best, and who have found by experience that the name La Touraine on a package of tea or coffee always stands for quality that is definite, unvarying, dependable.

Like old friends, tea and coffee play too important a part in the enjoyment of life to be slighted.

And, in tea or coffee, as in friends—

A WIFE'S MEDITATIONS

By Helen Rowland

CURIOUS how often a wife sits alone in the quiet of the evening, and thinks of the many things that have happened since she married. She thinks of the first day when she saw her husband, of the first time they were alone together, of the first time they were angry. She thinks of the first time they were happy, of the first time they were sad. She thinks of the first time they were in love, of the first time they were in trouble. She thinks of the first time they were in the world, of the first time they were in the world.

It was a rainy night, and the rain was falling fast and hard. The wind was howling, and the trees were shaking. A man in a suit and hat was walking down the street. He was looking at the ground, and he was walking very fast. He was looking at the ground, and he was walking very fast. He was looking at the ground, and he was walking very fast.

Americanize the Charter, Mr. Mayor-Elect

Then Emancipate Boston From Step-Father Government on Beacon Hill

TO the Honorable Malcolm E. Nichols, the Boston Evening American takes pleasure in extending congratulations upon his election as Mayor of Boston, and best wishes for the success of his administration.

With the New Year he will assume a high honor and a heavy obligation, but he will also face a splendid opportunity—one that may well inspire him to do his best by the capital city of "the oldest democracy in the Western World," and by the metropolis and transportation centre, airport and main gateway to the sea of the six New England States.

When he resigned the office of United States Collector of Internal Revenue to stand for Mayor, Mr. Nichols did what this newspaper insisted that it was the duty of other office-holding candidates for Mayor to do.

At the same time Mr. Nichols publicly pledged himself not to be a candidate for any other public office during his term as Mayor.

This also was in line with an appeal addressed by this newspaper to all the other candidates.

In commending him for his course, the Boston Evening American said, on August 29th last:

"Not every public citizen, imbued with ambition for public office, is endowed with the talent for public administration. Mr. Nichols has given a good account of himself as a public administrator, in municipal, State and Federal offices of large and varied responsibilities."

The Boston Evening American meant what it then said regarding the candidacy of Mr. Nichols for Mayor, and, therefore, has nothing now to retract in congratulating and wishing Mr. Nichols well in the wake of his election as Mayor. Our felicitations at the close of the campaign are as sincere as were our comments at the commencement of the campaign.

To the credit of the newly-elected Mayor let it be remembered that he was one of a small minority of the candidates in the mayoralty race who conducted a clean and straight-forward contest in the midst of the most disgraceful campaign that has ever insulted the intelligence of the plain people of Boston. On that account he is probably the second choice of many thousands who voted for one of the few among the many candidates who preferred, at all times, to address the intelligence of the plain people of Boston instead of pandering to prejudice, passion or ignorance.

Unfortunately, alike for the newly-elected Mayor and for the people of the city, whose municipal affairs he will administer, he is not the first choice of the majority who participated in yesterday's election. He is the choice of only a minority. But he is not to blame for this fact. The Charter is solely to blame.

The Boston City Charter ought to be changed by the Massachusetts Legislature at the next session so that the people of Boston may be safeguarded in the future against an election law which makes it comparatively easy for the will of a minority to prevail at the polls over the will of a majority.

And if the newly-elected Mayor does not disappoint the expectations of the vast company of those who wish him well today, he will gladly assume the leadership of a city-wide movement to Americanize the Boston City Charter, and make that achievement the first step toward emancipating the capital city of Massachusetts from the tyranny of step-father government on Beacon Hill, from which the city has suffered all too long, and all too patiently.

Rescue the city of your choice from the yoke of step-father government, Mr. Newly-Elected Mayor, and your administration will go down in history remembered with gratitude by your fellow-citizens of Massachusetts who vote in Boston, and you will earn for yourself the honorable title of "a home rule Mayor."

"Acres of Diamonds"

You May Be Walking on Them

One year ago this week the Bangor, Maine, housewife was buying potatoes for $1.25 a bushel, when she could not get them for an even dollar.

A little later in the season, the producer up in that section who received 50 cents the bushel counted himself fortunate.

If anyone in Northern Maine wants potatoes this afternoon he can buy them for $2.25, "on the farm," the demand is increasing and everyone in Aroostook County looks for further advances.

A 300-acre Aroostook farm, the Hopkins Brothers' place at Fort Fairfield, was sold a year and two ago for $30,000.

Did you ever hear Dean Conwell's lecture, on "Acres of Diamonds"? The famous Philadelphian began, you remember, with a story of the ambitious Persian who disposed of his home place and went far away, to find his fortune.

Returning, after many years, the impoverished traveler learns that soon after his departure his farm was found to be the cover of a diamond mine.

Better make sure, Mr. New Englander, before you pull stakes and join the procession of gold-bunters, that there are no diamonds under YOUR feet.

"On the Other Hand--"

Why Must the Question Always Be, "What's WRONG With Us?"

Now that the Rev. James Gordon Gilkey of Springfield has suggested a new lecture-topic, the wonder is that no one had thought of it before him.

Wearing of all the Jeremiahs who find civilization tottering, Christendom bankrupt and the Younger Generation speeding for Tophet at better than sixty an hour, the pastor of South Church has taken to the platform with a talk on "What's RIGHT with America."

He finds nearly everything right, as nearly everything is. The Gilkey method is simplicity itself. The advertisements of one of the great insurance companies emphasizing an American's chances of being carried off by one of any number of diseases, Dr. Gilkey turns the picture around and considers the many CHANCES FOR HEALTH.

America, this unusual preacher reminds us, is wonderful "because it affords extraordinary opportunities to ordinary people."

And he is not sitting up nights worrying about the Y. G. "There never was a time," he says, "when it was not the favorite in-door sport of some older folk to find fault with their juniors."

The trouble with Dr. Gilkey, if any, may be that HE is young. In his Harvard days, he was a member of the Hasty Pudding Club. He is 36 years old. He may turn sour as he goes along, of course, but right now he promises to be as cheerful at 90 as another Depew. "What's RIGHT with America!"

Good Old Canada

Her Dollar Roots High

The Canadian dollar is worth more than the United States dollar, and the latest shipment of our gold to Canada, just announced, amounted to fifteen million dollars.

There is no secret about the value of Canadian dollars or about gold shipments to Canada. You must have CANADIAN money to pay for Canadian WHISKY being brought here from Canada.

The price of Canadian exchange is an indication of bootleg prosperity. For what sum, do you suppose, the bootleggers sell in America whiskey for which they pay $15,000,000 gold in Canada?

Not So Easy

Herdity or Environment

To the Friend of the People:

I would like some suggestions from your readers about what forms lie here in Boston. Is it heredity or is it environment?

On the back they are saying that "Boston street is the street that holds the silver few." I don't see far from Leverett street, they are saying that environment makes the dwellers in that locality.

I maintain that more people can rise above their environment than they can above their heredity.

Let us hear about this.

What Age to Marry

To the Friend of the People:

"If I were twenty-one, I'd plan to get married, hope for a family and plan also to make home life sweeter, happier, and more contented than in any other generation."

Letters Must Not Contain More Than Two Hundred Words. No Anonymous Communications Will Be Considered.

This is one item in the advice given to the young people by the Rev. Samuel M. Lindsay, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Brookline. I would like to say that a young man of that age has a dozen other things to think of than marriage.

There are very few young men that are to think of marriage at that age. Young women want too much these days. They are not willing to be spurned in their taste, and when you don't give them what they want in the way of clothing they feel aggrieved.

Steam on Ocean

To the Friend of the People:

Was the Rising Sun the first vessel to cross the ocean under steam ago, and for some time before leaving there I had observed that the majority of Texas youngsters were guilty of the same misconduct of which Mrs. Custer complains. The present-day parent considers it "old money" to teach the child ordinary politeness.

To my mind this lack of training is, in a large measure, responsible for the present crime wave. Failure to instill in children proper respect for their elders, I believe, begets disrespect for all forms of order.

Child Labor in Texas.

To the Friend of the People: Please tell me what is the child labor law in Texas? Has the eight-hour day gone into effect there?

LAUGH AT IT AND YOU ARE SUPERIOR

By DR. FRANK CRANE

"NO man hates him at whom he can laugh," wrote Ben Jonson in the sixteenth century.

We hate that which we fear and we never fear what we are able to laugh at.

When we laugh at something it is indicative of a feeling of superiority.

The reason we laugh at the farmer who buys the gold brick in the vaudeville show is because we feel that we would know better. We feel superior to him.

When someone makes mistakes we have outgrown we can laugh indulgently because we know better and feel superior.

The same is true in the happenings of life. Those things you are able to laugh at are the ones over which you feel superior, and those at which you are unable to laugh you fear.

It is when you are able to laugh at superstition and the bugaboos of ignorance that you demonstrate you have advanced beyond them.

When you accept them with deadly seriousness you demonstrate that you are their dupe.

If you can laugh at personal slights and hurts it shows you are superior to them.

When you can laugh at your own embarrassing predicaments it shows that you are bigger than they are.

If you can laugh at the sudden heaping up of bad luck it shows you are still unvanquished.

It is when you can laugh at yourself, at your own mistakes and foibles, that you demonstrate you have sanity and balance.

It is when you can no longer laugh at life that worry begins to consume your heart.

As long as you can laugh at your misfortunes, mistakes and embarrassments, you show that you are still superior to them.

HOW TO GO FASTER IS THE QUESTION

By Garrett P. Serviss
Noted Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

THE necessity for more, and for more speed, transportation over the surface of this planet of ours is growing prodigiously.

Telegraphy in its new, almost miraculous, forms is dragging physical man in the dust behind its humming charts. Civilization depends as much upon material as upon mental communication, contact and exchange.

However spiritual we may be in our innermost nature, we are fundamentally material in this life, and cannot do the world's work by simply realizing our values, our hopes and our wishes around the globe.

Men have necessarily to get together, they have to see and to touch one another. The world is being thrown open; they must have means of swiftly visiting all parts of it, and of conveying their words, their letters, their physical exchanges of every kind as well as their persons, from continent to continent with a velocity answering to the incredible rapidity of electric communication.

The time-limits of ocean liners are out of date. It still takes six days to cross the Atlantic. We need it just as fast, twenty years ago.

If you are in Europe and must get home in the shortest possible time, or if you have a most important letter bearing, say an indubitable signature, to send to New York, you or your letter may have to be eight days or more on the way.

Even in the height of the tourist season you cannot count upon more than about two "six-day ships" per week, and if you are not at the port of sailing, a day or two more will be lost by slow trains or slow postal service.

This is wrong; it is not creditable to human genius and activity. It is one-sided development. Fascinated by the marvelous powers of "radio" we are learning to talk faster than to do and to move. If all mankind were telepathic what should we get from that, but a new and more horrible fable?

I believe that it has been fairly demonstrated that an aeroplane can be made to travel at least 100 miles an hour.

Perfect, as it would be in a fifty-mile race, it is not against the bloody hands at one another's throats, such a machine would cross the ocean, not in six long-drawn-out days, but in six short hours; it would surprise and astonish, or between midnight and morning, New York would sleep by itself in peace in the evening, while, without being woken by its beds at dawn amidst the thunder crash of aerial bombardment.

But go to the only thing on this earth that drives to take, or is capable of taking great nature by the forelock, and leading it, like the old to the yoke.

That thing is the untiring, undaunted, human mind. I read the other day that a famous psychologist had laughed to scorn the notion of "brain fatigue." He said, and I believe, that the harder the brain works the stronger it becomes. And muscle, too, grows and strengthens with exercise. If we are to have faster travel we must work for it.
